Melbourne, Victoria, Australia - 23 November 2012 - It's just a few days before Christmas and we could almost feel the Christmas rush everywhere. Shopping malls are filled with people to buy Christmas décor, clothes and other holiday stuff.

Christmas is known to be the season of giving and it will never be complete without wrapping and unwrapping presents. Do you already have any gift ideas in mind? There are actually countless things to give this season and this might just be the perfect one that you have been looking for.

BatteryOperatedDigitalPhotoFrame.com (<http://batteryoperateddigitalphotoframe.com>) a rising new company in selling digital photo frames, is the ideal Christmas present to give to anyone, whether for a family member or a friend. This trendy and innovative piece of décor allows us to display an entire album of photos in a slideshow which will be perfect for any home. Another great feature of digital frames is that you can access the internet and display photos from your email or photo sharing sites. Another bonus is that they are energy efficient and environment friendly gadgets as they run on batteries. In addition to that, these digital frames can be found online, saving you the long hours of lining up in the cashier queues.

Make this Christmas a memorable one for your family and friends. Let them know that memories are not just for old boring picture frames. Give them this gift to appreciate and display memorable moments in their lives in a different perspective.
